P.S.: Do you have plans for next Tuesday, the 26th? Well if not, I have a plan for you: join us live on our Anniston, from Metricool.

"curse"!

And you, what goals do you have for September?

The truth is that I don't know what's better, launching them all at once or rolling them out one after another.

Oof, what a gift Instagram has given us. Have they stopped for a coffee, at least?

Now, Meta is working on adding the option to share a location in Direct Messages.

One of the most interesting features was the ability to reply to a specific message, like the one shown in the image above. This is similar to DMs on Twitter or iMessage style.

Instagram has continued to improve private messaging since it first arrived on the platform. Users can now request that a conversation be moved to iMessage, for example.

#HACKED…

Well, get out the popcorn because this week has been crazy. There's been confusion about the #HACKED hashtag, with some users sharing real incidents and others, well, let's just say it's a topic for another time.

Some are getting back to the gym, others recovering from Saturday college football.

Everyone is feeling the September rush, and trying to settle back into their routine. Is that real or are you exaggerating?

This is how the image feed would look like.

Meta will include the option to tag broadcast channels in a feed post.

New feature for the feed

As you can see in the image next to the news, Meta opens this program to company accounts. You just need a company account on Facebook and can join the waitlist.

Until now!

Meta Verified has taken quite a while to develop, but it's finally here! You can subscribe to this program and among other advantages, receive the verified account checkmark.

Following Twitter Blue, Meta is offering Meta Verified for businesses.

Now, X has launched this process for Premium users.

A few weeks ago, we mentioned in our news section that X was going to start requesting official documentation to verify your identity.

This is a requirement from X that you can see in the image below (source Techcrunch).

Only that, you will also have to take a selfie to prove that you are who you say you are. This is a process that X has been using for some time now for its Premium users.

And the latest news, I don't like at all.

Okay, I think we can all agree that X doesn't stop.

And you, what goals do you have for September?
